I thought that's what you're thinking. Yes I agree Steve would be good. He's quite good and I don't think would fill out on the spot. Libby

Sorry about that, Libby. I should have been more clear. That is the interview we do right after introductions to illustrate the need to "be prepared." We typically select a fairly senior level, or experienced person, so that the person we select doesn't feel "picked upon." I think Steve would be perfect for this. Thanks and see you on Wednesday afternoon. 'Best, Pam

You're losing me on the "ambush" designee. Do you mean who to target first off in the am? I would suggest an OSC such as Steve Merritt, Craig or Joyel. They are the ones that are most often ambushed in the field.

Thanks much, Libby. Very helpful. We have plenty of relevant Region 8 examples available. I'll provide them with options. Any thoughts on our "ambush" designee?

Hi Pam,

For Sisay, Json and Jennifer Schuller they are not going to have anything specific in terms of sites they are working on. Sisay manages the Technical Assistance Grants for communities impacted by Superfund sites so would not typically be dealing with the media. Json does our videography so would not be dealing at all with media. He may have just signed up for a learning opportunity. Jennifer Schuller has been certified as Public Information Officer under the Incident Command structure and could therefore get deployed in an emergency response incidence by has not so far.

What I would suggest for Jennifer, Sisay and Json is to just pick topics we've maybe used before. I think we've had some oil spill response examples, climate change and other's that aren't coming to mind right now. Do you happen to still have some of the examples?

As for Cynthia here's the challenge. She is the CIC for the GKM and Upper Animas site in Silverton. That's really all she is working on right now so I'm not sure how best to avoid this topic. She is doing some work on the Columbia Falls Aluminum Company site in Montana. I could follow up with her to see if she could write a brief paragraph of the situation up there. Otherwise, it's the Upper Animas site.

As for Craig, one of the recent removal actions he oversaw was the Pine Ride Landfill fire. Here's a link to the website that can provide you more information about that removal action:

Thanks, Libby

Thanks for reaching out to the group, Libby. We had two more folks respond. If you have some info you can send me about sites/issues the following EPA staffers are working on I can try to pull together some relevant scenarios for them too. (I need to wrap everything up by EOD Monday.) Also, your advice on who to pick for the "ambush" among those who have responded would be helpful. I'm thinking Chris Wardell, who has taken our courses a few times before, but yours and Rich's thoughts welcome. 'Best, Pam

Here are those who have not yet responded:

Sisay Ashenofi
Json Murrufu
Francis Costanzi
Cynthia Peterson
Jennifer Schuller

Also, need to know what Craig is working on these days besides GKM, in case he can make it to the session.
